EXPERIENCE

TEACHING ASSISTANT | "TECNOLOGIA DE LA INFORMACION EN ORGANIZACIONES" - T. U. D. A. I

Aug 2020 – Dic 2020

- Worked with students in class, to help answer any question they had.
- Graded projects and exams.

PROJECTS

TITLE | GRADUATE THESIS

- Currently working on visiting patterns and automatic labeling of places from smartphone data. Using R to create location based data models to predict labels, and Shiny to visualize results.

QUEUE-BASED MONTE CARLO ANALYSIS TO IMPROVE LUNCH TIMES ON CAMPUS | COLLEGE COURSEWORK

- Final work for the "Operations Research" course.
- We developed a Monte Carlo simulation of an everyday scenario for the dining hall on campus and proposed two solutions for the long queue times.
- We analyzed how our solutions impacted the queue times and presented the conclusions on a Shiny dashboard.
- Controlled through a R-Shiny dashboard, the simulation was implemented on Python utilizing the Simpy lib. End results were visualized by ggplot2 on R.

RAYMAN | COLLEGE COURSEWORK

- Final work for the "Software engineering" course
- A Feature Driven Design of a Personal Health Record app for Android.
- I was involved in the design and implementation of the cloud server, its API and database needed.
- Developed in Java and PostgreSQL, using Spring.
